

CLEVELAND IS MAN OF HOUR

Mere Mention of His Name Sends the Vast Democratic Convention Wild with Joy.

PARKER FORCES ARE IN CONTROL

Surprises May Come, Despite the Assurance That the New York Man Has Control of Delegates--Four Hundred Pledged Against Him.

(Special by Scripps-McLure.)
St. Louis, Mo., July 6.—The convention was called to order at twelve-thirty-one. D. B. Hill and the New York delegation entered without any special recognition. Tammany braves also were seated without attracting any notice. The Hearst contingent from California entered shouting Hearst's battle cry and marched around the hall. At 12:10 order was obtained and the call of the convention was read. Prayer was offered by Rev. John F. Cannon of the Grand Avenue Presbyterian church. Every seat in the hall was taken.

St. Louis, Mo., July 6.—Presidential sentiment at St. Louis is solidifying upon Judge Parker, and the leaders of his forces, it is believed, have it in their power to nominate him on the first ballot should they so desire, but favorite sons are likely to be given a chance on the opening roll call.

The opponents of Judge Parker are actively at work and claim they will have more than one-third of the delegates, thus preventing his nomination under the two-thirds rule.

The platform prepared by John Sharp Williams is acceptable to Judge Parker and is slated for adoption. It is especially bitter in its arraignment of the Roosevelt administration.

Parker Managers Are Confident.
The managers of Judge Parker have not made a definite program. They feel certain that they can make the nomination on the first ballot or on the fourth or fifth. It is only a question of policy. They are inclined to dispose of the nomination on the first ballot. They claim that 700 votes, or more than two-thirds, can be delivered on call.

The opposition to the candidate of New York has been strenuous, but it has been without organization and has therefore been ineffective. There has been no strong and popular candidate to bring together the opposition. The suggestion of Cleveland and the opposition of Bryan both aided Parker.

New York the Lodestone.
The desire for a man who can carry New York is the central thought with the delegates. Judge Parker is presented by the Democrats of New York as that man. The delegates know nothing about him except that he is on the bench and that he has kept control of his mouth ever since he became a presidential possibility. Silence is golden, and it appeals to the men who are trying to reorganize the party on some other basis than the noise and nonsense of the last eight years. They do not yet know what the new catechism will be, but they want a candidate who can learn it without unlearning a lot of old declarations, and they want a candidate to

DECORATORS AT WORK IN THEATRE

Mitchell & Halbach of Chicago, Commence Labors at the Myers—Something of Plans.
Representatives of Mitchell & Halbach, the well known theatre decorators of 261 Michigan avenue, Chicago, arrived this morning to start the preliminary work of decorating the Myers opera house. J. A. Bader, one of the representatives, gave the following outline of the work to be done: The walls will be paneled in rich reds and ivory; the ceiling and walls of the inner vestibule will be rich Indian yellow and orange and the ceiling and balcony will be decorated in cream color with large floral circles in the center; the panels on either side of the stage will be in red and ivory; the ceiling and orange and the outer vestibule in new green and soft colonial yellow; the walls will have a decorated panel treatment of Grecian design; the main ceiling, dome, and sounding board will be finished in a soft sky effect with hand floral decorations. When the work is finished the Myers will be one of the handsomest theatres in the northwest.

Train Kills Three.

Wells, Minn., July 6.—While they were walking on the track the west-bound passenger train ran over and killed Con Claude and his son and Gus Claude, his brother. Both were well-to-do farmers, living near Delavan.

Crowd Attacks Policeman.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 6.—While making an arrest Patrolman Fred Dabach was attacked by friends of the prisoner and terribly beaten. In defending himself he used his revolver and mortally wounded Edward Kelly.

whom the Democrats of New York are willing to pledge the electoral vote of that state.

Pennsylvania Starts Rush.
When Pennsylvania announced that her sixty-eight votes would go to Parker the rush began. Gorman's following got into line with Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia. Ohio has climbed into the band wagon. New Jersey is ready, and so is New England.

By the time the convention begins the Parker managers claim there will be nothing left on the outside but Hearst and Bryan. The Hearst vote may be divided. Wall of Wisconsin may be in the running, but his followers will be for Hearst. Cockrell's name may be used, but the Missouri votes will all go to Hearst. Gray may have the votes of Delaware, but only because they cannot agree as to whether to go to Parker or Hearst.

Division of Forces.
The whole party has centered on New York, the conservatives for Parker and the old Bryan forces for Hearst.

The men who have engineered the movement to nominate Judge Parker are gratified with their success, but they are not jubilant, for they realize that all danger is not past, that they must steer clear of enthusiastic impulse in meeting the platform on which their candidate is to stand. They want no enthusiasm now. They want deliberation, and they would like to have the delegates as indifferent to the platform as they have been as to the candidate who can carry New York. They do not expect this, and are waiting for the final contest as nervously as though it were to be over the nomination.

Platform Is Prepared.
The platform prepared by John Sharp Williams, the Democratic leader in the house of representatives, has been accepted by every wing of the party, unless Bryan himself may be excepted. There may be changes, for it is thought that Williams' draft dwells too lightly upon President Roosevelt's personality.

The question of a plank on the money standard is also to be settled, but otherwise the program of the restored and rejuvenated Democracy is already established.

The most important single fact yet developed in this struggle in St. Louis—more important even than the victory of Judge Parker—is that all the branches of Democracy seem to be agreed upon the proposed platform.

The delegates from all parts of the country have been fully sounded on the subject of the platform. Williams' ideas have been explained to them. Most of the leaders have read his draft, and nowhere has a protest been heard—nothing but hearty commendation and enthusiasm.

GERMANS BUY FORGED BONDS

United States Securities, Cleverly Imitated, Are Sold Abroad.
Berlin, July 6.—Notification has been sent the American diplomatic and consular officials in Germany by the state department to the effect that hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of counterfeit United States bonds are in circulation in Berlin and other financial centers of the fatherland. It is stated that the remarkable resemblance of the forgeries to the genuine bonds is well calculated to deceive foreign investors. Mendelssohn & Co., one of the principal foreign banking houses in this city, says that none of the counterfeit issue has come to their notice. It is feared that the victims of the forgeries are middle-class people not in a position to lose their savings.

AFRICANDER BRINGS $15,000

Champion 3-Year-Old of 1903 Bought by C. Fox at Disposal Sale.
New York, July 6.—At the disposal sale of the Hampton stable, held at Sheepshead Bay, Africander, the champion 3-year-old of last year and winner of $70,000, was sold to C. Fox for $15,000. He is a bay colt, 4 years old, by Star Ruby—Afric Queen.

MADISON PEOPLE LIKE JANESVILLE

Those Who Spent the Fourth Here Say They Had the Finest Kind of a Time.

Madison, Wis., July 6.—"If you miss a Fourth of July celebration in Janesville, you miss a bigger thing than a dozen censures." This is what is being told to friends by those who attended the doings Monday at Janesville. A large number of Madisonians went to the flower city for the holiday and the things seen there are the subject of conversation by all who went. The Nonesuch Brothers parade was novel and every feature commended to the extreme. Were Janesville to celebrate next year a much larger delegation would go from Madison. The capital city never celebrates, the prevailing mind here being opposed to anything other than that which "gray-headed" editorial writers call "a sane celebration," which means the shooting off of a few firecrackers by the small boys, the placing of a few caps on the street car tracks and the exodus of thousands of residents of the city and vicinity to other and livelier places with well-provided pockets to spend, while the home merchants tightly close their places of business and a Sabbath quietness prevails.

MOTHER TRIES TO TAKE SON FROM HIS FATHER

Woman Assaults Her Mother-in-Law in Desperate Effort to Secure Possession of Her Child.

La Porte, Ind., July 6.—Mrs. Alfred Borman of Chicago attempted forcibly to kidnap her 10-year-old son, who has been living here with the father, who makes his home with his mother, Mrs. Ernest Borman. Several thousand people at Vogel's park witnessed the frenzied effort of the Chicago woman, who, in the furtherance of her purpose, assaulted her mother-in-law, making police interference necessary. Mrs. Borman entered a plea of guilty to a charge of assault and paid the small fine imposed.

Mr. and Mrs. Borman separated about two years ago, the father alleging that the mother deserted the child, leaving it to the charity of the street. Mrs. Borman is still in the city and it is expected there will be further attempts to gain possession of the child. Mr. Borman is here to acquire the legal residence necessary to permit him to secure a divorce. He says the purpose of the mother is to kidnap the child, take it to Chicago, and thus get him where papers can be served on him.

While repairing a switch board in the power house of the Green Bay Traction company at Green Bay, Paul H. Canney came in contact with a short circuit and was seriously burned. His hair was singed almost to his scalp and his eyelashes and eyebrows were entirely burned off.

In a Runaway South of Racine

Tuesday evening A. Weber of St. Joseph, Mich., and Charles Arthur of Chicago, commission men buying strawberries, were caught in the top of a buggy and dragged several rods before the horse was stopped. Both sustained painful but not fatal injuries.

COLEMAN HOME ENTERED TUESDAY

Clothing, Jewelry and Bank Book Taken From the House Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon between two and three o'clock the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Coleman, on Gold street, was entered and several articles of clothing, jewelry, and a bank book were taken. Mrs. Coleman returned home about five o'clock yesterday afternoon and discovered that someone had ransacked the house and immediately notified the police. The police upon investigation of the affair seem to think that it was the work of young boys who were acquainted with the premises. No arrests have yet been made.

WAIT IN RAIN TO SECURE LAND

Rosebud Registration Crows at Bonesteel With Hundreds in Line.

Bonesteel, S. D., July 6.—The government registration books for entrymen on the Rosebud Indian reservation were opened Tuesday. A squad of 316 people waited through the night in a driving rain to be present when the registration office opened. J. S. Barnes of New York city was the first man to be registered, having taken his position at the hall door at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. At the Baptist church, where women and old soldiers were registering, only a corporal's guard of the men waited through the night, and were on duty at sunrise. The women began coming as early as 4 o'clock in the morning, and were placed in line with the old soldiers, who gallantly gave up their places to them. Miss Jennie Conway of Omaha was the first to register at this place. Only a few Philippine veterans were in line.

NEWS OF THE STATE IN BRIEF.

George Percell dangerously wounded James Honaker at Viroqua during the fourth of July celebration, by shooting him in the back twice.

Albert Donette, a 19 year old boy of Ashland, was instantly killed Tuesday night while trying to board a moving Wisconsin Central freight train.

One hundred and fifty of the 350 ministers and delegates expected for the Wisconsin district convention of the Missouri Lutheran synod, which convenes at Racine today, have arrived.

Budd Williams, colored, is at his home in Racine with a bad cut on his head. He became involved in a fight with Philip Gillis, and during it Williams' skull was cut with an ax. His condition is serious.

While dependent over domestic troubles, Mrs. J. Dickens of Madison attempted to commit suicide Tuesday night by taking laudanum. She will recover. The family moved there last week from Cottage Grove.

George Whitty of Baraboo, a brakeman on the Chicago & North-Western railroad, fell under a freight car while switching cars at Oregon on Tuesday. Surgeons were compelled to amputate one of his feet and part of the other one.

Paul Hart, a Marshfield workman, gave himself up to the police on Tuesday for stabbing his sweetheart, Mary Radlinger, in the neck with a pocket knife in a fit of anger. She is in a serious condition, but it is thought will recover.

WISCONSIN MAY BE BENEFITED

Track Coach Kilpatrick of the University, Talks of Going to Pennsylvania.

Madison, Wis., July 6.—Charles H. Kilpatrick, coach of the university of Wisconsin athletic team and graduate manager of the badger athletic association, is in the east on a quest for a position as coach of the track team of one of the big eastern universities. A report has reached Madison that he has been chosen for the position at the University of Pennsylvania, but his friends here profess to know nothing of it. They say, however, that he has taken to heart the persistent adverse criticism which blames him for the loss of some $12,000 in Wisconsin athletics during the past year, and will accept one of a number of good offers which eastern institutions have made for his services. While the last year has been a disastrous one financially to Wisconsin athletics, there are many reasons why the suggestion of bad business management on the part of Mr. Kilpatrick is harsh. The football team, which is usually expected to earn enough money to maintain baseball, tennis, track athletics and equities, was not up to the big receipts standard last fall and after the early season defeat by the Chicago team the attendance was light. However, the athletic association has become saddled with a debt which in comparison with the cash on hand a year ago represents a loss of nearly $12,000. Mr. Kilpatrick is the holder of the world's record in the half-mile run and is particularly strong as a coach in developing long distance runners.

BIG GRAIN ELEVATOR IS BURNED AT BOSTON

Thirty-Five Sailors Jump Overboard From Steamer and Three Are Supposed to Have Been Lost.

Boston, Mass., July 6.—The immense elevator of the Boston and Maine Railroad company, together with three of the company's freight houses on pier 1 and Mystic wharf, Charlestown, were burned Tuesday night, with a loss of over $1,000,000. Three lives are supposed to have been lost. Thirty-five sailors of the Allan line steamer Austria, which was lying at pier 1, jumped overboard to save themselves from the flames, which had communicated to their vessel. Olga Olsen, boatswain's mate; James Flynn, fireman, and Patrick N. Meenan, fireman, are the supposed victims. Flynn's body has been recovered. Most of the crew swam to shore, but eleven of their number were injured and required hospital attendance.

Before the fire on board the Austrian could be got under control all her upper works had been burned. The steamer arrived Monday and had discharged part of her cargo, this portion, which included $30,000 worth of Scotch whisky, being burned in the freight house. The fire started during a heavy thunderstorm, when a bolt of lightning struck one of the freight houses in which was stored a quantity of hay.

A son of Arthur Nickel, 2 years old, at Tomahawk, drank a bottle of carbolic acid, but is expected to live.

CARS THROWN FROM TRACKS

A wful Wind Storm Hurls Train Over a High Embankment Into a Ditch.

ENGINEMAN KEEPS CLOSE WATCH

Man at Throttle Tries to Avoid Its Path, But Is at Last Forced to Race Ahead, Trying To Escape Its Fury.

(Special-Editorial by Herald.)
Petersburg, Ill., July 6.—An accommodation passenger train on the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis railroad was blown from the track at Oakford, Ill., twelve miles north of Petersburg, early Tuesday evening, and one man killed and a number injured.

Thomas Wiley, aged 62, Springfield, Ill., is dead.

The seriously injured include George Coleman, conductor, Springfield; back hurt; Henry R. Chaney, Springfield, head cut; Henry Elchenauer, Petersburg, Ill., shoulder and back hurt; W. H. Gridley, general manager, Chicago, cut in head; Thomas Hogan, Springfield; Ernest Lieb, Springfield, injured internally; Frank Lynn, Chandler, Ill., head cut; Louis Mendonsa, brakeman, shoulder and arm injured; Ben Swazee, aged 70, Springfield, Ill., back broken; Fred Tominings, Springfield, head cut, back hurt.

Goes Down Embankment.
The train consisted of two coaches, a baggage car, and the engine and all but the engine were hurled from the track down a seven foot embankment, turning over twice in the descent, and landing in a splintered mass of debris.

The accident happened just a few rods from the bridge over the Sangamon river. The work of relief began immediately, as owing to the remarkable escape of nearly all the few passengers aboard, those who were injured and pinned in the debris were speedily rescued and at once given attention.

Watches Storm Gather.
The engineer, who escaped injury, said he watched the gathering storm closely as his train sped along, as he feared from the appearance of the clouds that a tornado might result. As the train approached Oakford the clouds suddenly seemed to concentrate and down, apparently coming directly toward the train.

DESPERATE FIGHTING FEATURE OF COMBAT

Repeated Bayonet Charges Mark the Skirmishes Between the Russians and the Japanese.

St. Petersburg, July 6.—An insight into the terrific nature of the fighting which is now a matter of daily occurrence between the Russian and Japanese armies, is given in a dispatch from Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff, chief of staff to Gen. Kurapatkin, which was received by the general staff. The dispatch is dated July 4, and describes an attack made by the advance guard of the Russian army operating east of Liaoyang upon the Japanese positions in the mountains near the Moa Tien pass.

Repeated bayonet charges made by the troops of both armies, and the almost complete annihilation of a company of Japanese troops, were features of the desperate battle which raged around the pass before the Japanese, according to the dispatch, were finally driven from the trenches.

The fact that Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff witnessed the fighting near Moa Tien pass is taken here to indicate that he is in command of the forces east of Liaoyang, which include the army corps under Lieut. Gen. Count Keller. The fighting around Sen-Chen is taken to indicate that the Japanese are determined to hold the ground to the south as well as Dalia pass until a favorable opportunity presents itself for an advance on Yin Kow (the port of New Chwang).

BELIEVE SERVANT GIRL IS INSANE

Strange Hallucinations Take Possession of a Young Woman Employed at Myers Hotel.

Mary Elizabeth Jones of Fairbault, Minn., who came here Monday to act as a waitress at the New Myers hotel has been acting strangely since her arrival and today the management became convinced that she was deranged and secured authority to have an investigation made. An order was issued by the court and two physicians, who were sent for at three o'clock. The unfortunate young woman talks rationally at times and then suddenly, without any warning, becomes possessed of hallucinations and mental vagaries of a most disturbing nature.

Sauk county prohibitionists nominated a full county ticket on Tuesday.

Realizing that the train would encounter the tornado if it proceeded the engineer, came to a halt. The approaching tornado, when about a mile away, suddenly swerved and the train was directly in its path.

Train Attracts Tornado.
Then the engineer endeavored to run beyond the zone of danger and again the tornado swerved and headed directly for the flying train. The roar was heard plainly above the rattle of the cars. Steam was crowded on and like a rocket the light accommodation, jumping and pounding on the rails, rushed ahead in an endeavor to cross before the storm.

Suddenly with a crash that was heard above the rumble and roar of the tornado, the train was struck broadside, the coaches torn from the engine and lifted into the air and hurled from the embankment into the ditch. The engine alone remained up on the rails.

The storm was described by Brakeman Mendonsa as a funnel shaped cloud, accompanied by darkness and a tremendous rain.

"As soon as the train stopped," he said, "I felt the car going over, and I grabbed a seat and held to it. Men, women, and a number of babies were being tossed about in the car as it rolled down the embankment."

Cars Take Fire.
The engine was hurled on to Petersburg, where a relief train was speedily made up and, bearing physicians, hurried back to the scene. The wrecked cars took fire, but the flames were extinguished before any headway had been made. As soon as possible the injured were placed aboard the relief train and taken to Springfield and Havana.

General Manager W. H. Gridley, who suffered a broken arm, remained on the spot and directed the relief work, as did Conductor Coleman of Springfield, who was cut about the head and face.

LONG LAW SUIT SETTLED AT LAST

Minnesota Farmer's Wife Secures a Divorce From Him While He Stays in Jail.

(Special to The Gazette.)

Madison, Wis., July 6.—William Burnham of Perham, Minnesota, a farmer who has occupied a cell in the jail in this city since October 20, 1903, for failure to pay his wife $200 pendente lite of an action for divorce which he says he has not the means of satisfying, was yesterday divorced on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. The plaintiff is a minor and the defendant 44 years of age. The marriage bonds which were dissolved were contracted May 7, 1892, when the plaintiff was but 15 years of age. Mrs. Burnham came to Madison more than a year ago and took a position as a family servant. She left her husband for the alleged cruelties and remained hidden in this city until she filed her action for divorce on sensational grounds. The defendant was served by publication in personal service and an order of Court Commissioner Harper to pay alimony pendente lite and attorney's fees. This Burnham refused to do and alleged as reason that he had not the money. The sheriff, who made the arrest, says that he was possessed of more than $200 in cash. He refused to pay an attorney claiming to believe that all the lawyers were in league against him and that he would make the county pay for his incarceration and detention. He made no defense to the divorce action in which a judgment by default was entered yesterday. He claims that his farm is mortgaged to its limit of value and to be in charge of his brother. Local attorneys say that they could procure his release by writ of habeas corpus but are not disposed to take the matter in hand for a man whom they believe to be able but opposed to paying for legal services.

Tie Between Brother and Sister.

In no country in the world is the tie between brother and sister closer than it is in Russia. The brother is regarded as her guardian equally with their father, and as her protector even more.

John Hart, who is being held by the Prairie du Chien police on the charge of assault and battery, on James Campbell, president of the village of Steuben, was released on Tuesday and immediately re-arrested on the charge of murder. His wife has gone insane over the affair.

LICENSES GRANTED TO FORTY-SEVEN

Saloons and Breweries at Special Meeting of City Council—Ten Druggists Given Permits.

Forty-four saloon licenses, three brewery licenses, and ten permits to druggists to sell liquor were granted at the special meeting of the council last evening. The application of Thomas Madden for permission to conduct a bar at 120 Pleasant street, west of the railroad tracks, was refused. In recommending the granting of the other applications which were accompanied by the checks for $500 and $10 respectively, Alderman Grove said that to his way of thinking it wasn't right to license one class of liquor men at $10 and charge the others $500. "But it's the state law and we can't get around that," he was reminded. Saloon and brewery licenses granted last year were fifty in number and yielded to the city a net revenue of $25,000. This year the revenue will be $23,000. The list is as follows:

STRUCK ON HEAD BY COLD CHISEL

Mike Klarshney, a Workman Employed at the Beet Sugar Factory, Met with Serious Accident Today.

Mike Klarshney, an Austrian employed on the construction of the beet sugar plant, met with a serious accident this morning. While at work on the ground floor a cold-chisel dropped from the scaffolding on the fourth story and struck him on the head just above the forehead. The man fell with a moan and companions, after binding up the wound to prevent loss of blood, hastily secured a rig and brought him to Dr. Palmer's office. He had not recovered consciousness when Dr. Palmer finished dressing the wound at noon but it was thought that he would recover from the injury. Frank Burdick who brought the man to the city said that he had been living in the camp. Klarshney is about thirty-five years of age.

WAS BIG FEATURE

Cold Dust Twins Favorites in the Great Nonesuch Parade.

One of the best take-off features of the Nonesuch Bros. circus parade was the Gold Dust twins. The representation was familiar to every one because the well-known Fairbanks trade mark has become almost a family affair.

ALREADY TALKING OF NEXT CARNIVAL

Those Instrumental in Success of Nonesuch Bros. Circus, Talk of a Tented Show Next Time.

In the dramatic personnel of the Nonesuch Bros. parade given in yesterday's issue the names of several participants were unintentionally omitted. C. F. Matthias and M. Bliss were among the cowboys who participated in the parade and the classic exhibition of the attack on the band wood coach. Bert Thornton was one of the Y. M. C. A. clowns. Four of the sixteen vaudeville artists engaged missed their train at Chicago. The twelve who came pleased the large crowds that gathered about the platforms erected on North Main street, South River street, and the Corn Exchange square. All returned to Chicago Monday evening. There is already much talk concerning the next celebration, and some advocate the plan of securing one of Ringling's old circus tents and giving a circus on the fair grounds at the conclusion of the parade. Whether it would be advisable to attempt another production in 1905 or wait until 1906 is an open question that, of course, need not be settled at this time.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

Little Jim Bear

Little Jim Bear had a kind father and a kind mother, and they always taught him to be good, to take care of himself and to keep out of the way of gunners. They gave him a good home, too, but in spite of all this early training he wanted to see the world.

"I shall go where there are no gunners," said he as he left his father's roof. He traveled and traveled until he came to a great field, in the center of which was a sign, and it read: "Notice! No bear hunting!" "Ah, ha!" said Jim. "This is the place for me. I shall be safe here." And then he curled himself up and lay down to sleep. I do not know whether he slept an hour, a day or a week, but when he awoke the barking of dogs could be heard on every side, and Jim, raising his head, saw hunters coming rapidly in his direction.

"See here!" cried Jim. "Can't you read? Look at that sign over there, 'No bear hunting!'"

And what do you suppose Jim got for an answer?

Why, one of the hunters raised his rifle to his shoulder and sent a bullet through the little bear's heart. And Jim did not have a chance to think how foolish he had been to disobey his parents and leave his home. That is the sad tale of Little Jim Bear.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Thomas S. Nolan was in Chicago yesterday.

ARE REPAIRING MONTEREY DAM

The Janesville Contracting Co. have commenced the repair work on the Monterey dam which is now in a state of delapidation for the purpose of increasing the water power for the electric plant. The leaks will be stopped up, the decayed wood and stone renewed, the large boulders replaced and the whole generally improved. One section of the old stone dam which has been almost entirely destroyed by the current will have to be rebuilt. Some sort of a macadam or pile and plank coffer dam will be built and these large boulders will be carried by a derrick from the old mill at the south end of the bridge and the construction will be similar to the rest.

Development of the Plow.

The great steam plow that tills with steel point ten acres of land in a day is the direct descendant of the savages' wooden plow which oxen pulled, or, before oxen were domesticated, a team of women hauled through the soil. The old wooden plow still survives in parts of Spain and Mexico.

ECHOES HEARD OF MONDAY'S PARADE

Vast Crowds Are Full of Praise of the Glorious Celebration and the Men Who Organized It.

Now that the street cleaners have about gathered up the remains of the glorious fourth and the city has quieted down to sober reflections it has been unanimously decided that the celebration on Monday was one of the finest of its kind ever held in Janesville. From the firing of the first firecracker shortly after twelve o'clock Sunday until the last skyrocket went up Monday night the whole city gave itself over to enjoyment. There was plenty of it and thanks to the committees in charge of the parades, decorations and arrangements, everyone had a good time. One of the pleasing features of the day was the scarcity of drunken men and the absence of gambling devices from the streets. If they were run in the saloons and different buildings the general public did not know of it, and the streets were given up to fun in which every one could join. On every side one hears praise for the Stoughton band. Early and late this band played excellent music for the enjoyment of the vast crowds that thronged the city. They arrived shortly after seven in the morning and seemed to have an almost continuous program of excellent music to please their hearers. Their concert in front of the Myers house in the evening was exceptionally fine. The Imperial band also furnished excellent music. They appeared on the streets shortly after ten and after the afternoon parade gave a concert in the courthouse park to thousands of people who sat on the grass and enjoyed the music. Through some misunderstanding there was no band concert in the park in the evening, despite the fact that thousands waited until long after eight o'clock for the musicians to appear. The morning parade of the city's industries was one of the best that has ever been shown in the city and the Nonesuch Brothers' circus in the afternoon was so realistic that many of the crowd actually wanted to find the show grounds so as to see the circus such a parade represented. While all the exhibits were especially good the appearance of Miss Chick Nonesuch more than delighted the crowds, and the graceful manner in which she handled the ribbons of gaily decked steeds brought forth applause along the whole line of march.

Col. Thomas Nonesuch, George McKee, delighted both old and young and to him belongs the credit for bringing together such an aggregation of world renowned "stunts" in one afternoon. The parade itself was over a mile and a half long. However, all the committees who worked to make the day a success deserve special mention and the thanks of the citizens should be extended to the following gentlemen who formed the executive staff of the day's celebration:

Speakers—L. E. Wortendyke, H. J. Cunningham.

Advertising—Chas. Putnam, W. H. Greenman, H. L. McNamara, John Jones, A. N. Gleason, W. A. Johnson.

CLINTON MAROONS VICTORS IN A VERY CLOSE GAME

That Pleased Spectators on the 4th—To Have New Baseball Park.

A large crowd saw the Clinton Maroons defeat the Commercial league team of Chicago by the score of 1 to 0 in one of the best exhibitions of baseball afforded this season at Athletic park Monday afternoon. All on and Pye formed the bases for the Maroons and Tillston and Slater for the Chicago players. Tommy Miller running catch from centre-field was one of the features of the game. Manager Herman Kath of the Maroons yesterday leased the property between Burr and Crystal Springs and expects to convert it into a baseball park. Work on a grand stand and the fences will commence at once and the first game will be played there a week from Sunday.

Special Train: The Chicago and North-Western will run a special train to Footville July 8, at 7:30 a. m., on account of the old settlers' picnic in that town on the above named date.

Our thoughts of the heavenly home always picture it in light, shimmering, opalescent, translucent, bathed in the ineffable glory of sunshine.

With the entrance of sunshine come peace, happiness and health, prime factors of gladness in living.

Depression and melancholy, says Matthew Arnold, are of the nature of death.

Life and warmth are of the sun, its rays meaning vitality and growth wherever they fall.

Wise souls court the sunshine.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Here are a few garter superstitions that still survive:

Gold garter buckles are "lucky" and silver ones the reverse.

The girl who wears her garters below the knee will early lose her beauty.

To put on the left garter before the right on dressing in the morning will bring bad luck all day.

The marriage of a bride who wears any but white garters on her wedding day will have an unhappy ending.

The luckiest colors for garters are white, blue and black. The wearer of yellow garters will lose a friend within a year.

If a garter breaks in church the wearer's marriage will be happy, but if the accident happens at a dance, it is a sign the wearer's sweetheart is faithless to her.

His Mourning Dogs.
Fifty years ago the British minister at Dresden, Mr. Forbes, had three little dogs of the Pomeranian breed, one black, one gray and one white. When the court was in mourning he went out with dog No. 1, when it was in half mourning with dog No. 2 and when all was going well with dog No. 3.

Smallest Coin, the Maltese Grain.
The smallest coin in the world having a genuine circulation is probably the Maltese "grain," a tiny fragment of bronze about as big and round as the top of a slite pencil, and worth only one-twelfth of a penny.

He Knew Her Qualifications.
John E. Burke, of Norfolk, Va., said that an agricultural society offered a prize for the best method of irrigation. The word was printed "irrigation;" whereupon an old pioneer sent his wife to claim the reward.

Central African Beer.
Central Africans make a kind of sweet beer which is effervescent, and tastes a good deal like champagne. It is made by mixing water and banana juice, and allowing this to turn sour. It is said to be wholesome, but it is drunk only by women and children.

No Hurry in Japan.
The Bible says, "Yet a little more sleep, yet a little more slumber, yet a little more folding of the hands in rest." In Japan the traveler finds the phrase, "A little more tea, one more smoke and the folding of the legs to sit."

First English Daily Newspaper.
Two hundred years ago the first daily paper was started in England. It was called the Daily Courant and was published by Elizabeth Mallet in a shop near the Fleet Ditch, in Fleet street, London.

Eczema

SETS THE SKIN ON FIRE.

No disease causes so much bodily discomfort, or itches, burns and stings like Eczema. It begins often with a slight redness of the skin, followed by pustules or blisters from which a gummy, sticky fluid oozes, which dries and scales off or forms bad looking sores and scabs. It appears on different parts of the body, but oftenest upon the back, arms, hands, legs.

Dear Sir:—I feel it my duty to write and let you know what S. S. S. has done for me. I have suffered with Chronic Eczema for over fifteen years, and have spent a great deal of money trying to get cured. Have used salves and washes and different kinds of blood medicine, have been treated by the best doctors in the city, but could not get better. My leg was in a terrible condition when I started the use of S. S. S. Have taken several bottles and now there is not a spot on my leg or any other part of my body. I feel like a new man.

CHAPTER XVI.

AN ARGUMENT AND AN EXPLANATION.

VENGENCE gleamed in Orskoff's eyes. His sword was at the throat of the American. "Stealer of women! Scoundrel who has twice stolen the daughter of Biartelkis. Where have you hidden her? The searchlight of the gunboat revealed the hayboat, but she is not there. Where have you hidden her?"

"Now, captain," said Harvey, "don't be too hasty in this matter. I did not steal Koura Biartelkis, but I know where she is."

"You know! Of course you know! You know when you say you did not steal her. You came down the Kur in a hayboat belonging to the Astrakhan Charka with a woman disguised as a man? Who else was that but Koura?"

"You are getting excited! Kindly take that confounded sword from my throat. I'd like to talk with some comfort."

"Comfort! A stealer of girls asks for comfort! That is the limit of American effrontery. I'll run the sword to the hilt."

"If you do, I assure you that you will never see your Koura again."

"See, he admits he has the girl! He has accomplices who will kill her if he is harmed!" shouted one of the soldiers. Something in the words and manner of Harvey impelled Orskoff to lower his sword. He turned to the soldiers who were guarding the four robbers and said:

"Take them on board the gunboat. It is evident that they have robbed Russians, for here are bags of rubles. They must be taken at once to Tills. Convey all the treasure on board."

"Turning again to Harvey, his face assuming its expression of hate, he said: 'You know that I love Koura, and to rescue her I am willing to parley with you. I had determined to kill you on sight. Come with me.'

Harvey followed his captor to the entrance of the cave. Here he found a guard of additional soldiers with lanterns. In the distance a brilliant searchlight sent its gleam upon the island, lighting it as by day. In the great light from the gunboat Harvey could see that the old hayboat had stuck in the mud near the island. At a little distance was a sailing vessel, evidently the property of Palpak and his robber brothers. On the shore were two boats, which had landed the Russians.

The five prisoners were jostled rudely while getting into the boats and at a command from Orskoff were soon on the way to the waiting gunboat. They were received on board by a young officer, who saluted Orskoff.

"I congratulate you, my captain. I am told by the men that you not only captured the American who stole the daughter of Biartelkis, but that you also had the good fortune to seize the four robbers who attacked the paymaster and robbed him at Mogda."

"Are you sure these are the men?" "I could not be mistaken. The leader is Palpak, chief of the tribe of Zanuck, nominally under the rule of the ameer, but hating him."

"Guard them well then."

"Shall we get under way at once, my captain?"

"No, lieutenant. As you know, we want to find Koura Biartelkis. I have, it is true, captured the man who stole her, but I have not succeeded in finding the young woman. Remain here while I investigate. I shall go on that island in the daytime and search. I can see little at night even with the searchlight."

Harvey stood waiting to be questioned, but Orskoff paid little heed to him. "Put the prisoners in irons," he said to a subaltern.

"But irons won't unlock my lips," said Harvey.

THE DISCOVERER OF SEVEN BARKS

Was, thirty-five years ago, one of Germany's foremost physicians, besides he was a celebrated botanist and chemist. His discoveries were many and invariably successful. Perhaps his most important discovery was that of the great and popular preparation called Seven Barks—extracted from the bark of a specially grown Hydrangea plant. This bark grows in seven layers, each division possessing wonderful individual curative values. One acts as a gentle cathartic, another as an alterative, the third as a diuretic, the fourth as an expectorant—while the other three layers produce wonderful, upbuilding tonic elements.

Most All Disease

Emancipates from the drainage system (the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys). When one of these organs becomes clogged or congested the others naturally suffer in sympathy, and it requires a thorough cleansing and the restoration of all of them before each can again fully perform its natural function.

Seven Barks

Contains nature-giving principles that will effect immediate relief and, in good time, a permanent cure of all such disorders. One 50-cent bottle will demonstrate its phenomenal value.

"I will find a way to unlock your lips. If I cannot find Koura on that island in the morning, I will hang you by your thumbs till you tell the truth."

"But I am anxious to tell it now. You won't listen."

Orskoff waved his hands, and Harvey was dragged away.

The gunboat remained, and as soon as it was sufficiently light in the morning Orskoff took a squad and returned to the island. He examined every foot of the pier and returned to the gunboat chagrined and angry.

"Bring up that American!" he commanded. Harvey was hustled to the deck.

"Lieutenant Nevsky, attend," said Orskoff. "Now, stealer of women, I will give you one more chance to tell the truth. If you do not, your thumbs will be torn out. Your life depends upon your answers. Tell where you have hidden Koura. Your punishment will be worse than death if you do not. Koura was to have been my wife."

"You said something like that before, but that she was to be your wife is news to me. For my part, I am willing to tell you where she is."

"I have searched the island. I am convinced that Koura is not there."

"I could have told you that and saved you trouble and time. Koura is getting further away every minute. You will never find her."

"You flout, I will have your life!" howled the captain as he sprang to his feet.

"You do seem inclined that way, but before you take it, reflect. Just show a little common sense, if you have any. If you kill me, how do you expect to find Koura?"

"But you say you do not know where she is."

"I said nothing of the kind. I said I did not know where she was. But I did not take her there. Take off these confounded irons, treat me like a man, and I will tell you what I know."

"Remove the irons," said the captain. The lieutenant unlocked them. "Come with me alone," said Harvey. Surprised, Orskoff beckoned to Nevsky, who turned and walked away.

"Be wary," said Orskoff, "how you trifle with me."

"I am not trifling with you. I am the only man who can help you find your Koura, and it happens that I have an ardent reason to want to find her as you."

"You—you love her?" "I don't even know her, but one I love is with her."

"Then you did take her away?" "No, I did not. I know nothing about Koura—that is, except where she is this moment. But, before I tell you, must first tell me how you traced me to the island."

Orskoff made a gesture of impatience. "Koura had been living with her uncle in Tills. I saw her every day, and if I was not on duty I spent the evening at the house. One night I was on duty and did not go. I stopped to see her the next morning, and her uncle, who was beside himself with terror, told me she had gone out the night before and had not returned. I knew she had been stolen, and as that was the morning you escaped from prison, I knew you had taken her. I searched the river and learned that Charka's hayboat had gone down toward the Caspian. It was said that a man and woman, the woman disguised as a man, had gone with Charka. I reached the coast as soon as possible, but I could not overtake you. The launch had gone before I made the discovery, or all this would not have happened. On the gunboat I cruised everywhere, using the searchlight at night. Last night we discovered the hayboat and at once went to the island."

"I was on Charka's boat," said Harvey, "and if you had used any reasoning powers you would have known that it could not have been Koura who was with me. You say you were told that the woman with me was disguised as a man. Now, how could I get Koura in such a disguise? When a woman disguises herself, it is for a purpose. Koura was stolen; she did not go of her own accord, as did Alma."

"You speak of Alma Jurnieff, niece of the ameer?"

"Yes. She assisted me to escape, and, as our attempt was discovered before she could return to her apartments, it was necessary for her to fly with me. On the Caspian the hayboat met with disaster, and Alma and I were left on it alone. We drifted all night, shivering with cold and hunger. In the morning we found ourselves under the bows of a long, black boat belonging to the ameer of Bokhara."

"I know the boat. It is used to carry goods to Persia."

"Not this time. It is being used to carry Alma Jurnieff and Koura Biartelkis to Bokhara. They permitted Alma to go on board, and I, like a fool, in my excitement allowed them to know she was not what her clothing would show. They would not take me, and the captain, whose name, I believe, is Karakal, or something like that, shouted out to me that they had the daughter of Biartelkis and that soon both girls would be the brides of princes."

"Is this true? Do you swear you are telling me the truth? How did they get Koura?"

"Hafiz Effendi passed us in a creak. He was intercepted at the mouth of the river by the launch, and something was said about sacks. They were permitted to depart. Undoubtedly the Turk had Koura concealed."

Orskoff spent several minutes in thought. Suddenly turning to Harvey he pulled out his hand, saying:

"I believe you. I ask your pardon for the insults I have heaped on you. This is terrible! Koura gone! A slave to the heathen ameer, and I helpless to aid or rescue her! It makes one mad! I could drive this sword blade into my heart!"

"Sit down and be calm," said Harvey. "We can rescue Alma Jurnieff and Koura or kill the men who marry or harm them. Let us work the game together. I am starving. Give me some food."

The food was ordered.

END OF A QUARREL.

Miss Pendleton said to Brownlow as they left the house: "You needn't speak to me again, for I shall not answer you."

Brownlow said: "That would hardly be polite, would it? I remember that in my infancy I was admonished to 'speak when I was spoken to, come when I was called, shut the door after me'—and something else which rhymed, but which I have forgotten. I was told that was 'manners.' Now, you wouldn't like me to think that you had no manners, would you?"

"It is a matter of perfect indifference to me what you—"

She bit her lip and did not complete the sentence.

"You were saying—?"

Miss Pendleton did not answer. Brownlow looked at her and smiled. "I don't want to obtrude my society on you," he said. "If for the moment you would rather be without me I could go back, you know. Or," he added, "I might walk behind you a few paces—say, 12 feet. That strikes me as a respectful distance. Which shall it be?"

He stopped, as if to fall back.

"I won't have you following me," she said in icy tones. "If you wish to leave me you are at liberty to do so. I suppose I can go alone. It will look strange, but I don't suppose you will care for that."

"Well, won't it look strange if you don't speak to me? It would look as if you had quarreled with me. Besides, as I said before, it would hardly be polite."

"I shall treat you precisely as I would any other gentleman while we are there. After that I don't wish to see you."

"Surely, I am to escort you home?"

"I said 'after that.' After this evening, if you prefer it."

"But I don't prefer it."

"Whether you prefer it or not, I prefer it—infinitely. And in the meantime I wish to be excused from conversation with you."

Miss Pendleton turned to look down the car track.

"It's coming now," said Brownlow. As the car stopped Brownlow helped her aboard and as he did so he noticed what particularly trim shoes she was wearing. Well, she was a particularly trim young person. He could not help feeling proud of her, although it was all over between them.

"I find these street car signs very entertaining," he observed when they had been seated a minute or two. It was a summer car and they had to occupy a seat together.

There was no response to this.

She looked at a passing automobile as if she fancied she recognized one of the occupants. Brownlow looked at her averted face and it seemed to him that a sort of spasm of pain crossed it. "He wondered if that inconsiderate remark he had made an hour before could have hurt her so much. He had apologized for it, though he had not thought it anything serious; but now he felt actually repentant."

Miss Pendleton stole a sidelong glance at him and then bent over with a rapid movement and did something to her shoe. Brownlow apparently took no notice of the movement. Presently he sighed and turned toward her. She averted her head. He kept on sighing at intervals of half a minute. She refused to look around. He gave it up at last and rose and went back to the rear platform. He was gone three or four minutes. When he returned Miss Pendleton looked very much disturbed.

"What is the matter?" he asked. This time Miss Pendleton spoke. "I've lost my shoe," she said with forced calmness. "It was a little uncomfortable and I slipped it off for a moment or two and I—I think it has fallen out of the car."

Brownlow was silent for a moment or two as he gravely considered the awful situation. Then his face cleared. "What size shoe was it?" he asked, suddenly, and she was surprised into saying that it was 3½.

"Then here's where I get off," he said, rising. "You go on around the loop and when you get back to the next corner you'll find me standing there with a glad smile on my face, and a pair of 3½ shoes under my arm. It will make us 20 minutes or half an hour late, but that won't matter."

"I wouldn't think of it," she began, with cold dignity. "I will not consent."

But Brownlow had swung off the car.

By the time the car made its circuit and got back at the corner where Brownlow had left it Miss Pendleton seemed to be in a happier frame of mind, for she hailed the appearance of Brownlow with a smile almost as glad as his own.

"They're in my pocket," he whispered, as he took his seat beside her. "I'll smuggle them to you one by one. Are you ready?"

"Yes," she said, with a nervous little laugh and took a shoe from him.

"Now the other. That's right. How do they fit?"

"Beautifully—and as easy as can be. Oh, Jim, how sweet and noble and resourceful of you! And I was so horrid. Will you forgive me?"

"How long had you been wearing that tight shoe?" Brownlow asked.

"All the afternoon," she confessed.

"Then I forgive you," said Brownlow. "I only wonder you let me off as easily."

When Brownlow reached his room that night he took the missing shoe from the breast pocket of his coat and looked at it long and tenderly. Then he put it away in a drawer.—Chicago Daily News.
